New PTA Programs at Home

Programs. Powered by PTA.

National PTA has developed at-home models for its STEM+Families Science Festivals, STEM+Families Propelling Our World, PTA Connected Smart Talk, and Healthy Hydration programs. The PTA Programs at Home models offer engaging, educational, and fun activities for all students and their families - with or without access to technology. The models include Real-Time, At your Own Pace, and Tech-Free. PTAs can use one or a mix of these models with families in their school communities. PTA Programs at Home materials are available to all PTAs at PTA.org on the various program webpages.

Tip of the Week

Communicating with the 3 C's

Communication. Powered by PTA.

So much goes into running a PTA. Every detail, no matter how small it seems, is important, especially how we communicate with our members, students, their families, and communities. It is important to note some of the questions they may be asking you as leaders.

- Do you care for me?
- Can you help me?
- Can I trust you?

Answering all of these questions will decide your success in engaging everyone.

When you communicate your answers always keep in mind these 3 C's:

- Connection - Many people don't commit to you when they understand. They commit to you when they feel understood.
- Confidence - "The people who are crazy enough to think they can change the world are usually the ones who do." -Steve Jobs
- Challenge - The leader's challenge is to help people move from know how to do now. "No company, big or small, can win over the long run without energized employees who believe in the mission and understand how to achieve it." -Jack Welch

Our members and leaders dislike chaos, poor communication, and goals that are unclear. When a leader consistently provides clear direction, keeps things organized and running smoothly, and solves problems with regularity, people, our members, want to follow.
